

Lessons in Laughing Out Loud

Willow and Holly are identical twins. They're alike in every way, except one - Willow is afraid on the inside. And it is all because of a secret - one that binds the sisters closely together. For a very long time Willow has felt separated from Holly by one terrible moment in time - a moment that meant Willow's life was never the same again. And when the past catches up with her, Willow realizes it's finally time for her to face her fears, and learn to laugh again.
